During the first quarter we saw strong demand for our advanced microenvironment and liquid packaging product platforms. These products are part of a broad portfolio of solutions that are addressing the semiconductor industry's increasing requirements for higher degrees of purity and cleanliness in their process chemistries and manufacturing processes."

Mr. Loy added: "These emerging requirements represent incremental opportunities across the semiconductor ecosystem that we believe will be important growth drivers for Entegris in the future. Looking ahead, continued demand trends for our solutions position us for a strong second quarter."
